

ÚJ JEDLIK ÁNYOS GIMNÁZIUM

KONCEPCIÓTERV

GYULAI LEVENTE
MIZSEI ANETT
REZNICSEK ZOLTÁN

2018. JÚLIUS 12.

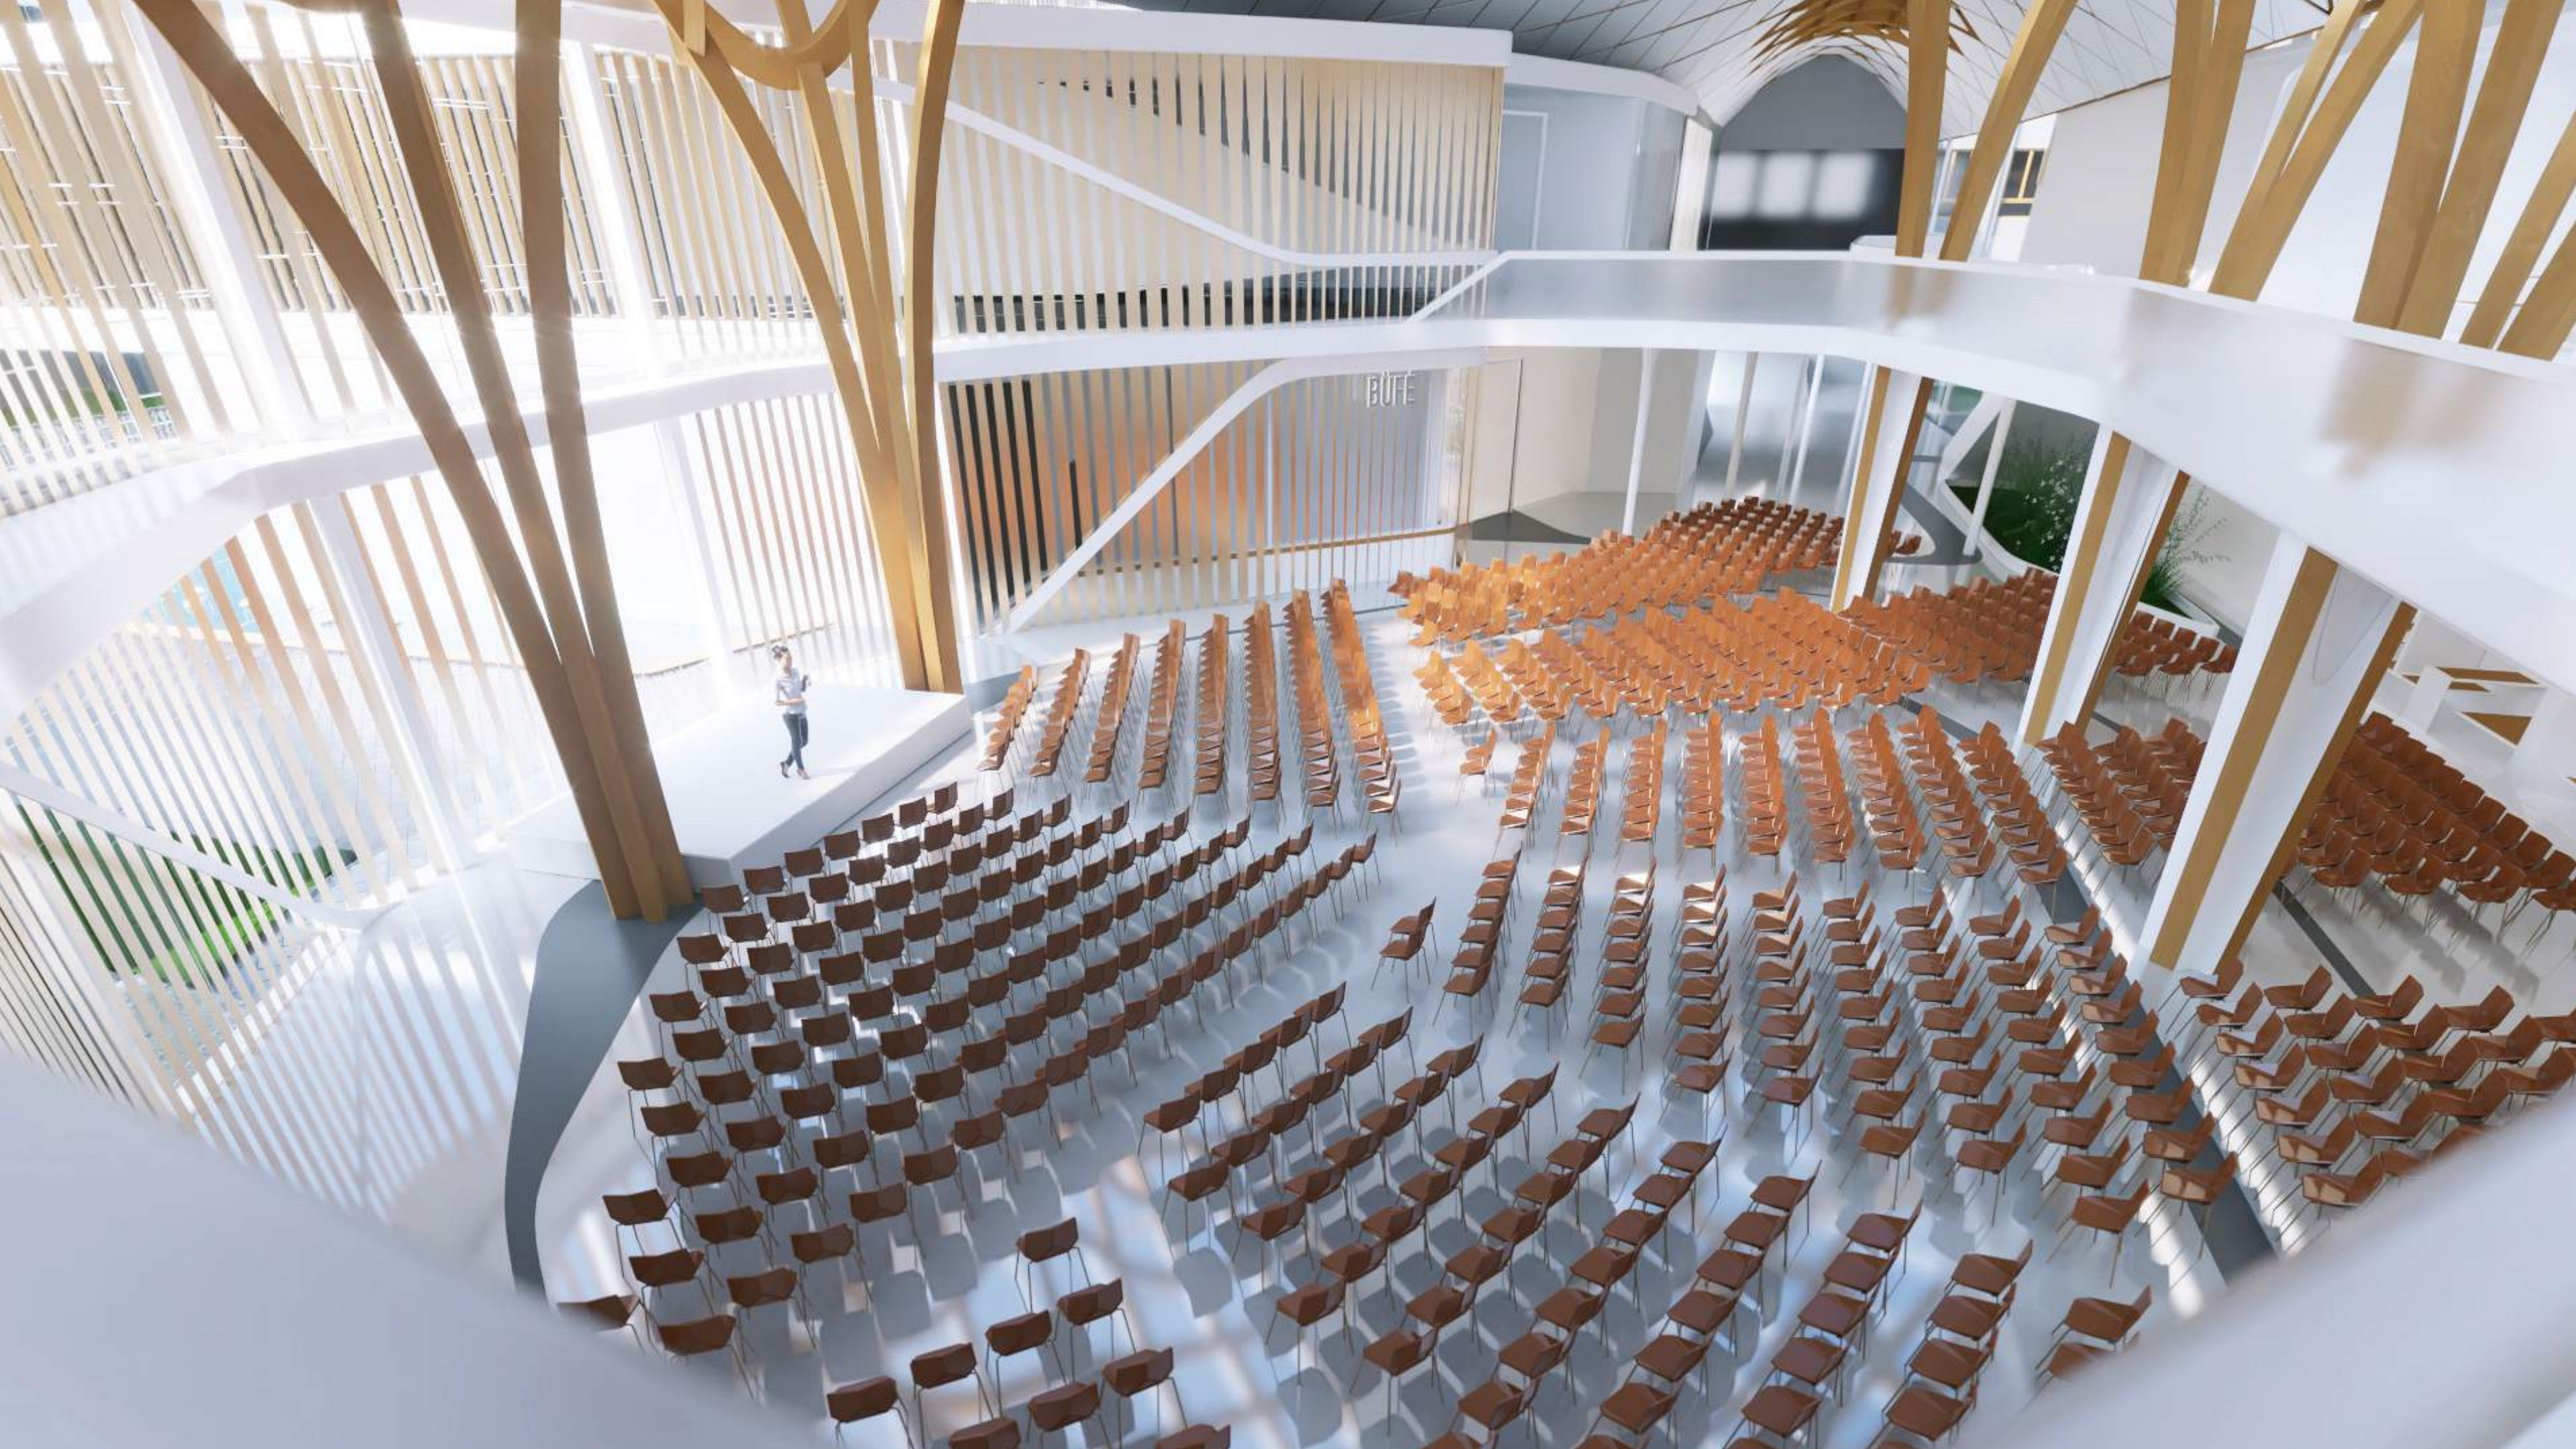

BÜFÉ

How to know what you address when writing
Transition to Capital Budgeting

1) Write a short paragraph about the topic. This is your first impression on the reader. It should be clear and concise. Use simple language and avoid jargon. This is your chance to grab the reader's attention and make them want to read more.

2) Write a short paragraph about the topic. This is your second impression on the reader. It should be clear and concise. Use simple language and avoid jargon. This is your chance to grab the reader's attention and make them want to read more.

3) Write a short paragraph about the topic. This is your third impression on the reader. It should be clear and concise. Use simple language and avoid jargon. This is your chance to grab the reader's attention and make them want to read more.

